Hidden Legend Winery was founded in 2001 by Ken Schultz, himself raised in Mentor and a Class of 1970 Mentor High graduate and moved to Montana in 1979.

Unable to find grapes in Montana to pursue his passion for making wine, Ken decided to make Mead, that ancient beverage of Greek Mythology and Norse Lore, using the abundant honey in Montana and the Legend was born.

Visit our website today and learn more about our modern version of this ancient beverage and have a bottle or two of the fourteen varieties delivered right to your door.

Because no good story starts with someone eating a salad...

WHAT IS MEAD?

MEAD IS, AT ITS CORE IS FERMENTING HONEY WITH WATER

Mead is, at its core, an alcoholic drink made by fermenting honey with water and combining it with grains, spices, fruits and sometimes hops. It is also referred to as honey-wine and while different cultures reserve the latter title for other drinks, Mead and honey-wine are mostly interchangeable. Part of the reason why Mead is called honey-wine is that it is fermented rather than distilled or brewed as well as the fermentation process requiring the same yeast used in winemaking. That is mostly where the similarities end. Mead has its base in honey and wine's base is in fermented grapes, also mead tends to have a wider variety than the type of honey used since it is frequently combined with other ingredients like beer is. So, Mead doesn't always taste like honey and has next to no flavors in common with wine.
